Battered wives' refuge

"Wife-beating can end up in murder." With that observation, Cathie Brown sums up the urgency of her quest to start, as quickly as possible, a refuge where women and children can go to escape from a violent partner.

A former probation officer, Cathie doesn't have to go far for her information. "Everybody," she asserts, "knows somebody who needs, or could have used, a place to get away from a wife-beater."

A Livermore man is currently accused of having beaten his wife to death just a few weeks ago.

There are no local statistics on wife-beating because charges brought by women against their husbands or boyfriends are lumped with other battery cases. "But it wouldn't be relevant anyway," says Cathie, "because so many women don't want the humiliation of calling the police. Or, they're just plain afraid to pick up the phone because it would only make him madder."

Instead, Cathie feels, a woman could probably pack up the kids and leave at some point during the night or the next day, if only she had a place to go. Once safely at a refuge, she could seek counseling, perhaps investigate job opportunities and consider whether she wants to salvage her relationship with her husband.

"It would at least give her a choice," Cathie points out.

"Abusive behavior is learned behavior. Men who take their frustrations out in a violent way on their wives and women who accept the beatings learn to do so from their role models, their fathers and mothers."

Ex-probation officers' crusade

If the vicious cycle can be broken, maybe the children of these families will not establish the same patterns of behavior in their adult relationships. Many children of battered women are also beaten. They need protection from this type of negative living experience."

Cathie's idea is to work with Valley women's groups — National Organization for Women (NOW), Junior Women, church auxiliaries — to establish a women's refuge in the Valley.

Currently the nearest refuge is in Hayward. Another, established a year ago in San Francisco, is so heavily used the staff has to be selective in their admissions.

Cathie has reserved the West Room of the Recreation Center at Eighth and H Streets, Livermore, for a meeting March 10 of anyone interested in helping to establish a refuge for battered wives. The meeting

Grand Jury calls Santa Rita probe

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — The grand jury will begin inquiries next month into the fracas at the Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center involving 26 women being held in the jail's maximum security "Greystone" wing. The Times has learned. Sheriff Thomas Houchins is scheduled to meet with the jury March 9.

Meanwhile, three municipal court judges reportedly are interviewing the women and their guards to find out exactly what has been happening in the normally all-male "Greystone."

The women, remnants of a Feb. 6 disturbance in which female inmates reportedly rioted over a mess hall dispute, claim they have been denied simple hygiene and are being watched by male guards while they attend to private matters.

Sheriff's department officers deny the charges and say they are doing the best under the circumstances.

County board of supervisors chairman Charles Santana and Valley representative Valerie Raymond this week asked Houchins for a tour of the facility to look into the women's complaints.

Yesterday the two reportedly backed off on their demands when they found the grand jury and the municipal judges were looking into the matter.

Houchins' secretary relayed word from the sheriff to The Times that the two board members had agreed not to tour the jail.

Tom Houchins

The full board will meet in executive session next week to discuss their pending U.S. Supreme Court appeal in the county's fight over press access to the sprawling jail.

The county and the sheriff were sued successfully by public television station KQED in a question of limited press access to the jail. A federal appellate court upheld the ruling, but U.S. Supreme Court Justice William Rehnquist last month signed a stay temporarily blocking the lower court order.

The board must decide if it wants to pursue the high court appeal and risk a sweeping access rule if it loses, or compromise now with KQED and set up palatable standards.

Rationing for Lab?

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory, part of Sunol and Castlewood face the prospect of from one to three or four years of water rationing at a 25 per cent reduction, according to a San Francisco Water District spokesperson.

The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission has ordered the SFWD to detail a plan for rationing water to all 32 cities and other water customers by March 22, when the PUC will hold a public hearing on the plan.

Lawrence Livermore Laboratory draws its water directly from the Hetch Hetchy pipeline. The old part of Sunol and Sunol Valley Golf Course are also SFWD water customers.

Another disposal try

Valley officials will again attempt to select a wastewater disposal alternative and set a date for a revenue bond election measure tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in Livermore City Council Chambers.

The Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Board (LAVWMA) has narrowed its options to three, involving either a May or November special election and three disposal alternatives.

Jail doomed

Plans to build a $34 million county jail in Hayward apparently will be scrapped with the announcement yesterday by county supervisor Valerie Raymond that she would vote against the project. Raymond joins board chairman Charles Santana and north county supervisor John George in forming a three-member majority now on record against the controversial jail.

Mori committee to meet

State Assemblyman Floyd Mori's joint committee overseeing operations of the Agricultural Labor Relations Board will hold its first hearings next month in Sacramento to review implementation of the controversial farm labor board.

The committee will be looking for problems the ALRB has encountered since its reopening, the steps taken to resolve the issues, and how the board is implementing the act. The Pleasanton Democrat's committee will take testimony from ALRB Chairman Gerald Brown, general counsel Harry Delizonna, and board staff.

The committee will meet in room 4202 of the State Capitol at 9 a.m., Friday, March 4.

AV, Poke girls clash

Amador Valley and Livermore high schools will renew their ancient rivalry on the basketball court tonight when the Don girls and Cowgirls clash in an East Bay Athletic League "crucial" in Livermore.

Amador leads the EBAL with a 12-1 mark with tonight's game rounding up the season. Livermore is 11-2 as is Monte Vista. A Livermore win tonight could send the race into a three-way tie for first and a playoff would be necessary.

Dublin High fire solved

DUBLIN — Two 15-year-old boys yesterday confessed to setting a fire that caused $50,000 damage to Dublin High School Monday night. A third youth is being sought.

The suspects, all Dublin High students, were arrested at the school about 3 p.m. yesterday. They were booked on suspicion of arson at juvenile hall in San Leandro.

The arrests were made after fingerprints found at the scene were positively matched to prints on file at Santa Rita. Comparative prints were available due to prior contacts by the suspects with sheriff's deputies.

Det. Sgt. Gayen Temple of the sheriff's department, one of two men specially trained in arson investigation, made the identifications. He lifted fingerprints on a fire extinguisher found on the roof of the school building and from dust on the inside of the charred structure.

Both youths reportedly confessed to setting the fires, said sheriff's Lt. Ed Volpe, after the match-ups were made and the suspects arrested. Volpe said a third youth, still being sought, was definitely involved and the only suspect outstanding.

The fire destroyed room B-14 and damaged four others, melted vinyl chairs and burnt several textbooks in the B wing. Two firefighters sustained minor injuries while controlling the blaze.

Under California law, parents of juveniles convicted of acts of vandalism can be liable for damages. Part of this could come through the criminal process, Volpe said, and more damages could be recouped if the school district brought a civil action assuming a conviction was returned.

Approximately 150 students displaced by the fire damage have been reassigned to other areas. Principal Robert Hagler predicted four of the five damaged rooms would be available for use again in two weeks.

The only exceptions the PUC has in mind, apparently, are critical industries where employment would be lost or hospitals, said Leonard.

Realignment work ruled for Bernal

Alameda County Bureau
OAKLAND — The bow in Bernal Avenue near the I-680 freeway entrance where last year a 16-year-old Foothill High School co-ed was killed in an auto accident will be ironed out by the end of June.

County supervisors this week agreed to accept bids on an estimated $66,000 contract to finish the job by the start of the county fair June 26. Bids will be opened March 24.

"That curve's been a killer," said Pleasanton Director of Safety Walt McCloud. "We've had quite a few fatalities out there over the years."

Supervisors three years ago turned down a request by their roads department to flatten out the curve. But public works officials included the project in the current county budget.

Sixteen-year-old Dawn Martelli of Pleasanton was killed early on the morning of Jan. 30, 1976, when the car in which she was riding slid out of control and smashed into a telephone pole.

Hetch Hetchy pipeline. Sunol, except for Kilkare Road, buys its water from San Francisco. Homes and the golf course at Castlewood get part of their water from the San Francisco Water District's old wells located on the Valley floor near Bernal Ave. It's not clear whether the district's well water would be affected by rationing.

S.F. rationing hits home here

PLEASANTON — Castlewood, Sunol, and Lawrence Livermore Laboratory face from one to as many as four years of water rationing at a 25 per cent reduction, according to a San Francisco Water District spokesperson.

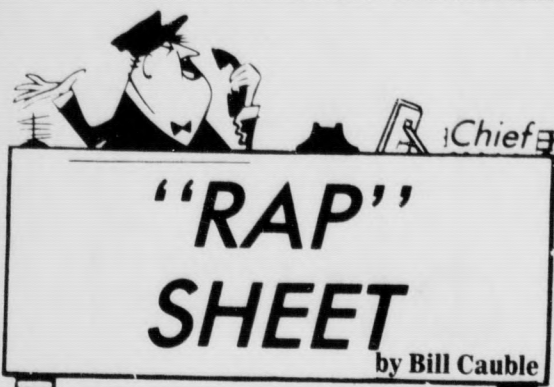

The SFWD is under order from the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission to present a 25 per cent water rationing plan for all 32 cities and other water customers by March 22, said SFWD Publicist Jim Leonard.

"It would be mandatory rationing," said Leonard. "They told the water department to develop the specifics and on March 22 they will have a public hearing on it."

Leonard could not say what effect the rationing plan, if adopted, would have on Valley water customers of the San Francisco district, but he

Three youths arrested for joyriding

LIVERMORE — Three 13-year-old boys were arrested after they reportedly took a family car for a joyride, crashed into a gas pump and a brick pillar at a service station, finally becoming stuck going the wrong direction on a one-way street.

Police said the youths sneaked out of their homes for a prearranged meeting Tuesday night. One juvenile took his parents' car, and the three went for a joyride.

They pulled into the Springtown Gulf station on Bluebell about 11:30 Tuesday night when the vehicle suddenly went out of control and ran into a gas pump and a brick pillar. The suspects backed the vehicle out onto the street, but sheet metal damage caught the front tire and stopped the car facing the wrong direction on a one-way street.

The suspects were booked on suspicion of joyriding. The driver was additionally booked for suspicion of hit and run driving. All suspects were released on notices to appear in court.

Arson, vandalism discovered at Junction School

LIVERMORE — A flooded bathroom, an unsuccessful arson attempt and a stolen hose nozzle were the work of vandals damaging Junction Avenue School Tuesday morning, police said yesterday.

Officer Richard Davies observed a man walking near the school about 1:15 Tuesday morning. After checking out the man's identification, Davies and Detective Mel Karlne made a security check at Junction Avenue School and discovered the damage.

Plugged-up toilets caused a 1½-inch flood of water in a girl's bathroom in wing four of the building. Three fire hoses had been pulled from a wall, and one nozzle stolen. An attempt had been made to set a fire in a large waste-basket located in the bathroom.

Karlne went to the home of the man stopped earlier near the school, but no evidence existed he was the vandal. No smell of smoke emanated from his clothing, police said, and his shoes and socks were dry.

There are no suspects at this time. The fire department is conducting an investigation into the attempted arson.

Foothill High suffers $500 vandalism

PLEASANTON — Vandals broke several large plate glass windows, kicked in student lockers and spray-painted obscenities on walls at Foothill High School over the three-day weekend.

Police said obscenities in brown and white paint on several walls at the school were directed at a particular teacher.

Rocks were used to break a number of large windows, and lockers located outside the building were kicked in, police reported. Damage was estimated at $500.

In a separate incident, police said burglars entered the school's cafeteria early Tuesday by unknown means, broke a window between the dining and kitchen areas, and stole an unknown quantity of ice cream and cookies.

Fingerprints were lifted from both sides of the broken window, police said. There are no suspects at this time.

Bowling and golfing gear taken from car

PLEASANTON — Burglars removed $717 in sporting equipment from a station wagon parked in a Jefferson Court driveway recently, police reported.

James Thomas Howland said a set of Spalding golf clubs and assorted bowling equipment was taken from his car. There are no suspects.

RV burglarized at storage yard

LIVERMORE — A recreational vehicle stored at a lot at Fourth and Wood streets was burglarized of $260 in goods recently, police reported.

Police said the RV, which belongs to J.R. Ashmore of El Camino, had been entered through the wheel well storage space. An interior cabinet was forced open, and three Coleman sleeping bags and a water pump were stolen. There are no suspects.

No stoplights for conversion student

DUBLIN — There is no chance of stop lights or stop signs being placed on Village Parkway at Tamarack for children going to and from Frederiksen and Fallons schools this fall.

In a letter sent to Murray School District Acting Assistant Superintendent Heinz Gewing by the Alameda County Planning Dept. earlier this month, the county said lights and stop signs "would not be justified as this time."

Under terms of redistricting, due to the pending conversion of Frederiksen School to seventh-eighth grade use, K-6 students in that area will be attending Fallon, located on the other side of four-lane Village Parkway.

Junior high school-age students will also have to cross Village Parkway to get to Frederiksen.

The county said in the letter it could undertake a comprehensive study this fall after traffic patterns are established...if the district agrees to pay half the costs, or about $200.

The district had originally made a request for stop signs and/or lights for the busy crossing in a letter to the county Board of Supervisors.

It was suggested that residents write individual members of the Board of Supervisors in regards to the prospective crossing problem.

The county has stated it will study the need for placing of crossing guards at the intersection.

In an unrelated item, the Fallon School PTA has cancelled the candidates night slated for tonight. The next candidates forum is Monday, Murray School, 7:30 p.m.

Dublin School PTA has also announced it will host Acting Superintendent Heinz Gewing and Acting Assistant Superintendent Wally Moreskine Monday night at 7:30. The two will explain the plan to lease 10 classrooms at the school to the Valley Christian Center starting next fall.

Associate Pastor Patrick Clemmons of the school will also be present to answer questions.

VMH slate elected

LIVERMORE — It's official now — Edwin C. Rundstrom's will be the new face on the Valley Memorial Hospital board.

Rundstrom, who served on the VMH board from 1965-9, is a local rancher and retired Livermore Unified School District superintendent of schools.

Appointed to the board last month to fill an unexpired term, Rundstrom was elected by VMH Association members at Thursday's annual meeting.

He is also on the Alameda County Resource Conservation District board of directors, chaired the YMCA sustaining membership drive in 1974 and 1975 and has been chairman of the Livermore Planning Commission and Livermore Rotary Club.

He ran unopposed for the seat on the hospital board, along with incumbents Jack Bras and Joseph Sladky, whose re-election was also confirmed at the annual meeting.

BART bus patronage way up

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Valley commuters boosted BART's feeder bus service a whopping 33 per cent last year while increasing revenues by some 24 per cent.

But the financially beleaguered AC Transit District which operates the buses still faces financial doom.

Overall, the suburban feeder bus system in both Contra Costa County and the Valley carried a "surprising" 43.2 per cent more passengers in 1976 than in 1975, according to AC officials.

Passenger trips for the entire East Bay system — including inter-city rides and the transbay commute — rose 6 per cent to a "record breaking" 59.3 million.

Some 325,000 Valley commuters hopped aboard the "U-line" to the Hayward and Bay Fair BART stations in 1976 compared to 244,709 in 1975.

Revenues from "U-line" commuters rose from $110,957 to $137,718.

Data on the "D-line" from Dublin to Walnut Creek is not available, according to a BART spokesman.

AC Transit's overall 59 million passenger trips is "the highest number of riders carried since 1952," said district officials, when the now defunct Key System carried 81 million passengers.

Patronage in the new Fremont - Newark district "far surpassed consultant estimations" and shot up 35 per cent from 1975.

Nevertheless, AC Transit has warned officials of a cumulative $2 million deficit at the end of fiscal year 1978 even "after expending all contingency reserves."

The Bay Area wide Metropolitan Transportation Commission has proposed a controversial $1 bridge toll to cover deficits at AC Transit, BART and the San Francisco Muni.

All three are going broke, concede officials.

little daughters to know I care about them."

Parker said he felt like something was driving him to write songs. He has taken a leave of absence from his job in Los Angeles to begin the task.

"But that job will be waiting for me when I go back."

To test himself and others he said he left Los Angeles with one penny in his pocket and intends to return with the same amount.

"But I want what I'm doing now to originate from Livermore," he said. "I've only been here four days and people here are already helping me reach my goal. Things seem to be moving very fast for me."

During the four days in Livermore, he said he has written seven lyrics. Two others were composed before leaving Los Angeles.

"I telephoned Conway Twitty and Loretta Lynn's head office manager yesterday. His name is Hugh Carden. He agreed to listen to my first song if I can get it to him within 30 days."

An acquaintance of Parker's Jim Echols, is organizing local bands that will help promote Parker's songs.

'Ring of fire'

Quakes show pattern

LIVERMORE — Stop worrying about that next big earthquake. It won't do any good.

Not only is it impossible to determine what causes them, scientists say earthquakes cannot be predicted with any reliability. And it might take several years to determine what pre-quake signals do exist.

These and other earth-shaking facts about the causes and predictability of tremors kicked off the first of three seminars on quakes at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory Wednesday night. Sponsored by the Chabot College Valley Campus, the symposium features experts from different fields of earthquake research.

A world map outlining moderate and major quakes from 1960-72 showed a distinctive pattern of heavy occurrences on all land masses surrounding the Pacific Ocean. This, said Dr. Thomas McEvilly, chairman of the UC Berkeley Geology Department, was commonly known as the "ring of fire."

This region includes most of history's worst recorded quakes, including San Francisco (1906), Alaska (1964) and December's China earthquake that reportedly killed more than 655,000 persons, the worst disaster in eight centuries.

One theory on the cause of quakes maintains that the earth is composed of large plates of adjacent horizontal land. Internal pressures cause these plates to shift, creating an earthquake.

It is along the boundaries of these plates where quakes occur, McEvilly explained.

It is not known what causes the plates to shift. Possibilities include intense heat from the earth's core, which McEvilly terms an "incredibly active" heat engine; gravitational forces, or simply the deterioration of underground rock formations.

Faults in the western U.S. are generally visible above ground and easily traceable. Most faults extend the full length of the state.

Seven-year tracings of small faults in the Bay Area show a cluster of tremors along the Hayward, Calaveras and San Andreas faults. These clusters were used as an argument against the recently withdrawn concept of a Dow Chemical Co. plant near Antioch, McEvilly said.

Dr. Jack F. Everndon, a scientist from the U.S. Geological Survey in Menlo Park, presented the concept of predicting earthquakes as in its infant stages.

Researchers in quake prediction define their job as the detection of the initial failure in the earth's crust which inevitably leads to a tremor. This is entirely different from weather prediction, he said, since quake technicians are looking for a brief indicator, while meteorologists try to determine patterns based on recorded weather front movement.

Everndon called California "one of the more seismic areas of the world," and said quake prediction work would proceed at a faster pace in other, more volatile parts of the world.

Test equipment placed at various points along local faults have shown no pre-quake pattern that could be used for predicting tremors accurately, he said. Even tiltmeters showing ground swells present no repeatable indicator.

The second of the three-part earthquake symposium will be held Tuesday, March 1 at the LLL auditorium from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. "Earthquakes and Ground Motion" and "Earthquakes and the Single-family Dwelling" will be the topics of discussion.

Brice calls for responsive board

"I'm coming from a different direction." With an engaging smile, Livermore school board candidate Jan Brice sums up her reasons for challenging a ballot full of incumbents for a four-year seat.

"I want to change the board. And the only way I can do that is to unseat one of the incumbents."

Jan's winsome ways belie the determination with which she has been known to fight for school-related causes. She has been attending school board meetings for years, "strictly as a parent and taxpayer," speaking out on a variety of subjects.

"The majority of the board," Jan observes, "is not being responsive to a large segment of the community. They have ignored the input of the community" on such controversial issues as the establishment of a fundamental school; selection of the Granada High School principal; and contemplated change of Granada's Tufold scheduling system.

"The board does not approach problem-solving in a creative way," she says, suggesting that the public be informed of potentially controversial issues before decisions are made, not after the fact.

A forum-type school board meeting would encourage people to speak out on their concerns, she suggests. "Every once in awhile, we could have a meeting with nothing but public comment on the agenda."

For the many people who have special problems and can never seem to get them resolved by the district, Jan suggests a new service could be set up in the district office. A volunteer could take complaints and information request calls and channel them all to the right departments.

"So often," she notes, "you get no satisfaction and then find out you've been talking to the wrong people all along. Everybody's time is wasted."

Another change Jan would like to see is the hiring of a professional negotiator to represent the school board in their annual (and sometimes year-long) contract talks with the staff.

"Using someone like Dr. Bardellini (assistant superintendent of schools) as the board's representative forces him to wear two hats," she says.

"He's in an adversary position at the bargaining table and, sometimes in the same day, has to work with those teachers. It's a conflict of interest and creates animosity."

"Also, his salary is over $31,000 a year. If we need an assistant superintendent badly enough to pay him like that, we need him to perform the job of assistant superintendent!"

She adds that a professional negotiator has more legal knowledge than a staff member and the $3-5,000 salary would pay for itself in administrative time and effort.

On the proposed hiring of an Early Childhood Education coordinator, Brice feels: "Our priorities are really flip-flopped. In the ECE program, administration from the top down is not effective. Sure, you need to have coordination so they don't re-invent the wheel with every school's ECE program. But not by hiring another administrator!"

The current flap over school boundary changes is an example of "poor communication" between district and the public according to the candidate.

Although boundary maps have been in the works for months, notes Jan, parents were not informed of the changes.

Brice speaks on many of the issues as an "insider," having served on the Alternative Education Committee and held the post of ECE chairman at Arroyo Mocho and ECE co-chairman at Mitchell School.

She also has been "Art in Action" chairman for the citywide autumn art festival; director of the Junior Volunteer program at Valley Memorial Hospital; a member hospital's Scholarship Committee; and a worker for the Nursery School Scholarship Fund.

Born in Alexandria, Va., Jan has lived in California since she was in high school. She attended the College of San Mateo and ran her own interior decorating business in San Carlos for four years.

She and her husband, Ray, have two sons — Shawn, 8, and Nicolas, 4. They have lived in town nine years.

Pictorial tribute to an administrator

PLEASANTON — The "This-Is-Your-Life - Neil Sweeney - Memorabilia - Show" at the Amador - Pleasanton school district headquarters may become the best show in town when word gets around.

Sweeney is assistant superintendent for instructional services for the districts, working out of offices just a few feet away from the lobby display that pictorializes not only his pre-school district life but highlights from the early days of his tenure with Amador and Pleasanton.

Born and raised in San Francisco, Sweeney graduated from Sacred Heart College High School, and attended St. Mary's College.

After a two-year tour of duty in the U.S. Navy, he returned to St. Mary's, earning his A.B. in 1950.

His first teaching position was teaching English and mathematics at St. Elizabeth's High School in East Oakland for 1½ years. He then came to Amador Valley High School as a classroom teacher and athletic coach.

During the latter period Neil earned his Master's from the University of California at Berkeley.

After four years he was assigned the part-time responsibility of vice-principal. Amador, at that time, was the only high school serving Pleasanton and the Dublin, and later, San Ramon Village area.

In 1962 he became a full-time vice-principal.

In 1968 Neil was appointed Amador Valley High School principal and four years later assigned the task of preparing for the opening of a new high school, Foothill, as its principal. After the added duty of director of secondary education the following year, he became full-time director of secondary education in 1974. The position evolved into his present title.

Very much a part of the Pleasanton community over the past 25 years, Neil and his wife, Bev, are the parents of eight children. The oldest will graduate from law school this June while the youngest is now attending Pleasanton School.

Getting ready for Foothill

PLEASANTON — An information night for parents of eighth graders who will attend Foothill High School next fall is scheduled to-night at 7:30 in the Foothill library.

Wells eighth graders living in the Foothill attendance area will register Monday from 4 to 9 p.m. at Foothill; Donlon March 1, 4-9 p.m.; Pleasanton School and Sunol Glen March 2, 4-9 p.m.; Harvest Park Thursday, March 3, 4-9 p.m.

Letters went home to all present eighth graders listing specific appointment times with counselors.

Parents of eighth graders who have questions should call the Foothill counseling office at 462-1615, ext. 53.

Youth Art Month

Today is the deadline for art entries for Youth Art Month, co-sponsored by the Livermore school district and Cultural Arts Council. Art work of students in grades K-8 will be displayed throughout March in businesses in the downtown area as well as the Public Library and Education Center.

All youth in the Livermore school district may enter one piece of two dimensional art (not to exceed 18 by 24 inches) by contacting the public school the student attends or by calling Carolyn Ramsey at 447-0590. The work will be matted and hung for the show by community volunteers.

The local observance of National Youth Art Month began three years ago in order to promote an understanding of the importance of art education in the schools. All work submitted will be hung and exhibitors will receive a certificate of participation.

Weaving workshop

A slide lecture and discussion of weaving fundamentals, loom development and auxiliary equipment will be featured at a Saturday, Feb. 26 workshop at Pacific Basin Textile Arts, 1659 San Pablo Ave. at Virginia in Berkeley.

Directed by Jim Ahrens, an instructor of Production Weaving Techniques, and a designer and builder of looms, the workshop will cost $9 with advance registration recommended. The workshop will begin at 10 a.m. and end at 1 p.m.

Checks may be mailed to Pacific Basin Textile Arts, P.O. Box 7033, Berkeley, Ca 94707. For more information call 526-9836 Wednesday, Thursday and Friday between 1 and 4 p.m.

Vineyard art

The Livermore Art Association will hold their members fifth annual "Art in the Vineyard!" show and wine tasting Sunday, May 29 at the Concannon Wine Vineyards on Tesla Road in Livermore from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Open to the public at no charge, the popular event draws thousands every year for a day of entertainment and art viewing.

Civic chorus

The Livermore Civic Chorus is preparing for a winter concert of "Choral Classics." Scheduled for March 20, the concert will feature a variety of style and composers, and will be directed by Nico Snel. Beginning at 8:15 p.m. at St. Bartholomew's Church, the tickets are priced at $6.50 for adults and 75 cents for children and senior citizens.

Wearing soft leather shirts they designed and made themselves, Kathie McCollough and Bill Greene take time each day to bounce ideas off each other before starting new projects. Together they also design and make lovely pendants that combine delicate ivory and silver work.

inside the arts

There's no place like home

It's a good life — no set working hours, no forms to fill out for references and insurance premiums and best of all, you're the boss. For Livermore artists Kathie McCollough and Bill Greene, the way they make a living isn't really work.

"I feel like I've been on vacation for ten years," laughs Bill, who moved in with his sister last August. A craftsman who specializes in handwrought jewelry, Bill adds, "I think we do work harder than most people — it's just not work to us."

Kathie, an established valley artist shares a home bursting with plants, paint brushes and work benches squeezed into every odd corner with Bill and her young daughter. "I didn't start painting until I was divorced three years ago," she says. "When I realized that I couldn't totally make a living painting, I got into other things like ceramics, leather and designing jewelry with Bill."

Together they have created an outstanding combination of ivory pendants set in delicately cut silver, an expensive duo because ivory is so hard to find. According to Kathie, California will ban its being sold or bought within the country as of June 1, an act that will hopefully cut the amount of illegal poaching around the world.

Always resourceful, Kathie says she will etch her spidery drawings on something else when she runs out of ivory. "Steak bones will do just as well once they're polished," she points out.

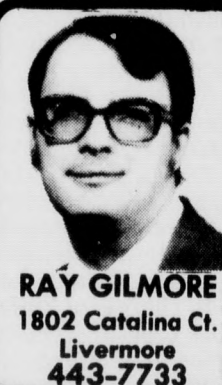

The easy-going redheads start their working days with cups of steaming tea, imbibed usually quite late in the day, they confess. "We bounce ideas off each other," says Kathie, who declares that she never has any problem thinking of subject matter for a painting. "Some people think it's hard to think of ideas," agrees Bill, "but the more you create things, the more easily it comes. It's just instinct."

Kathie's currently favorite subjects are animals and Indians, but she knows "that when I'm doing a painting I have 500 other ideas, which is why I keep a painting simple." Her techniques are effective — she has won 19 awards in over 25 local shows she has entered.

Bill already has more business than he can handle, but he admits that he probably puts in more time on the goldsmithing and silver work than is necessary. While he doesn't charge what he believes his time is worth — $30 an hour — Bill dismisses the amount of time he puts in on a custom design as "not important." Because he doesn't use wax molds, the artisan guarantees that every piece of jewelry is an original.

Valley residents will have the opportunity to see exciting samples of the young artists' work at the Livermore Art Association's annual Spring Show, scheduled to begin March 19 at St. Bartholomew's Episcopal Church. All interested artists are invited to pick up entry forms at the L.A.A. Gallery, the Way Up Gallery and Proctor's in Livermore.

"The Company" is officially alive and well and working on that fund-raising gala mentioned here last November.

With most of the legal hurdles to incorporation accomplished, the group is now moving into planning that first big event and also looking beyond to a premiere production later this year.

While completing the steps for a solid foundation, and eying fundraising sources, The Company's facilities wing is seeking out theater sites for initial productions.

An informational meeting was held with Dr. Barbara Mertes, Dean of the Chabot Valley Campus, to learn what the community college has on their master plan in the way of theater or performing arts facilities. As noted on the news and editorial pages last month, Chabot Valley Campus will have a multi-purpose facility ready this fall that could house theater, dance and musical events for an audience of 200 to 210.

The district's master plan also shows a full-service auditorium (adaptable for all the arts) for the Valley Campus and tentatively opening in the fall of 1982.

Members of the performing arts group are continuing to look for places, both large (several hundred to 1,000 capacity) and small (200 and under capacity).

Valley residents who enjoy the arts and would like to take a more active, supporting role, don't hesitate to call Mel and Helen Chew in Livermore, or Bev Hamlin, Gil Maines or Fred and Marie Cochran in Pleasanton.

This is a Valley-wide group that wants to get YOU involved, whether you're a resident of Livermore, Dublin, San Ramon or Pleasanton.

For all those who love the unorthodox or unusual, mark Wednesday, March 1 on your calendar.

Mark Turck, who was featured in The Times a month ago, will present a program on ghosts at the Amador Valley High School auditorium at 8 p.m.

Sponsored by the Sociology Speakers Bureau — Bob Holland resident impresario — the program will include many of Turck's documented experiences in searching out ghosts.

Turck has appeared on several radio and television shows, the Los Angeles Times as well as The Times, and is currently writing a book on "famous ghosts of San Francisco."

Works of the ancient Greek poet Aristophanes are getting wide play of late.

Civic Arts Repertory will close out the bawdy "Lysistrata" tonight, Friday and Saturday at the downtown Walnut Creek theater.

Chabot College's Humanities Division will present Aristophanes' hilarious satire on bureaucracy and social corruption, "The Birds," in the Chabot-Hayward auditorium on March 4, 5, 11 and 12.

Directing is Glenn DuBose, of "George M." fame. Prominently featured will be the chorus of 28 birds, each fantastically costumed in designs by drama staff designer Merrill Curtis, who will also do the settings. Chief feature of the scenic concept will be a large sculptural tree of welded metal, on which the Birds Chorus will cavort.

Information regarding tickets can be obtained by calling the college, 782-3000, extension 481, 341, or 286.

Barbershop bonanza

Don't miss the eighth annual barbershop show planned for Saturday, Feb. 26 at the Livermore High School auditorium. The Golden Statesman chorus of Livermore will lead off the evening under the direction of Jim Brockman, and quartets from San Jose and Sacramento will also entertain. Tickets for the show are $3 for adults, $2 for students and senior citizens and are available at the door. Tickets may also be obtained by writing Jerry Sveen, 548 Zircon Ave., Livermore 94550.

Duo brings art to streets

Pleasanton activists Billie Schmer and Phyllis Wentworth are showing one side of their lives to the public with a joint show of their macrame and paintings at Franklin Savings and Loan Association, Main and Division, in Pleasanton.

Both artists are involved with the Pleasanton Art League and the city's Cultural Arts Council. Together they helped found the highly successful "Artique," an arts, crafts and antique show held every year at the Fairgrounds. Billie and Phyllis are also promoters of the community's street faires, a fund raising event that benefits the Cultural Arts Council and art students.

Billie's macrame are known for their originality and unique patterns, which are often set off by tiny pieces of jewelry. A nine year resident of Pleasanton, Billie teaches macrame through Adult Education at Amador High School and the Pleasanton Dept. of Recreation and Human Resources.

A long-time valley resident, Phyllis began painting ten years ago. Known for her realistic approach to her subjects and a dedication to detail, she is currently working with her own technique described as "realistic illusion," reminiscent of tapestry.

Who's too young?

Parents Without Partners is sponsoring the International Youth Exhibit Awards, open to PWP members' children, Saturday, Feb. 26 at the Livermore Recreation Center, 8th and South H Streets. The contest's categories range from creative writing to sculpture and sewing, with last minute entries accepted as late as noon Feb. 26.

Children as young as six and up to 18 may enter the contest, which is expected to draw over 200 entries from all over northern California. All entries will be displayed from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Recreation Center. For more information call Martha Cherry at 447-3919.

Amador grad to solo in March 4 concert

PLEASANTON—The Amador Valley High School Golden Don wind ensemble, symphonic band, and advanced band will present a concert Friday, March 4 with two Amador alumni as featured soloists.

Dale Wolford, alto saxophonist, and Craig Erker, trumpet, are former members of the Amador wind ensemble and jazz bands.

The concert is slated for the Amador auditorium at 8 p.m.

Wolford will perform the saxophone concerto by Frank Erikson. In addition to performing with many of the Amador bands, Wolford was first chair with the California All-State Band of 1974; soloist with the Livermore-Amador Symphony that year and a finalist in the Pepsi Cola-San Francisco Symphony awards. He currently attends

Dale Wolford

San Jose State University.

Erker will perform "Dramatic Essay" by Clifton Williams. Erker was a member of the jazz band, wind ensemble and marching band while at Amador.

Tickets may be obtained from any band member at Amador or at the student affairs office. Prices are $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Lawyer's pact review irks Livermore staff

LIVERMORE—Much to the disgust of teacher leaders, the Livermore Unified School District board has hired lawyer Keith Breen to go over the 1976-77 contract before they will sign it.

Breen has been the negotiator for the Amador, Pleasanton and Murray school districts, but Livermore school board members have been appointing one of their top administrators — this year, Assistant Superintendent Rick Bardellini — to represent them at the bargaining table rather than pay for an outside consultant.

Because Bardellini has no legal knowledge, the board found it necessary to have a specialist check over the contract. Their meeting with Breen is tentatively scheduled for Friday evening.

Teachers ratified the contract a week and a half ago and are impatient at the delay, which was attributed to the collective bargaining law passed last year.

"It's a whole new approach," Superintendent of Schools Leo Croce elaborated yesterday. "A single word that is ambiguous can lead you into a conflict."

Originally, it was thought the county counsel, whose services are free to school districts, could look over the contract. But the board learned the counsel is "tending to steer clear" of the new type of contract, according to Croce.

The board has set no ceiling on the fee they will pay to have Breen go over the half-inch-thick contract, but "it'll be reasonable," Croce predicted.

Despite the teachers' impatience to be done with their current contract (which is retroactive to September), Croce said, "The board doesn't feel it has to be stamped into a thing."

Lions' speech winner

Debra Schweizer, 11th grader at Dublin High School, won first prize in a speech contest sponsored by the Dublin-San Ramon Lions Club. She will receive a scholarship worth $3800. She was one of three competitors at the event held at Dublin Corral Tuesday night. The competition was the first step in the annual Lions Student Speakers Contest held throughout California and Nevada. This was the 40th event. After winning at club level, contestants compete at zone, region, district or area, and finals.

The theme of the speeches dealt with Government of the People, By the People — Fact or Fiction? Kirstin Sweihart and Bill Wuepper from Dublin High School were runners up. The speeches were judged on thought content, delivery, effectiveness of the effort as a whole.

Advisory unit planned to select Murray head

DUBLIN — The Parent-Administrative Council of the Murray School District will meet tonight at Frederiksen School to complete formation of a local advisory committee.

Two parents are to be selected to round out the panel that will assist Dr. Donald Leu in securing applicants for the superintendent position now open in the district.

Tonight's meeting at Frederiksen will begin at 8 o'clock.

The advisory committee will be composed of two residents of the Murray district, two teachers, administrators, and classified representatives.

Leu was recently hired by the district to seek out applicants for the position vacated by Dr. Donald Williams. The advisory group will assist the board in developing the criteria and the board's evaluations of finalist candidates.

Current timing calls for the board appointing a new superintendent by mid-June.

Pat Althizer

open on the San Ramon Valley Unified School District board March 8.

Althizer runs "Neil Graphics" and his clientele knows him professionally as "Pat Neil."

After graduating as a graphic arts major from the Riverside City Schools system, he attended and graduated from the U.S. Navy Photography School in Pensacola, Fla. He holds various certificates for completion of business courses and trade seminars.

Married to the former

Jill VanGeem, Althizer and his wife reside in San Ramon. "As a property tax payer, homeowner, and voter, I have been to school board meetings and have taken the time to discuss the concerns of the community with the school administration as well as the school board."

Althizer sees quality education as the main concern of the community. He says he would try to ease that concern by encouraging change of the developer's policy to discourage the need for additional taxes by bond election. "The buyers of new homes in the district will absorb the passed-on cost of the developer's bedroom tax," says Althizer.

"At $500 per bedroom, based on projected building plans, about $7 million could be used for the construction of new schools to house the incoming students. By this method of financing, the residents already in the district will benefit from the projected growth, rather than suffer from it," claims Althizer.

Althizer says as a board member he could not support binding arbitration. Althizer claims that "in certain cases, students are being taught a long list of mandated subjects at the K-6 level, yet still can't read or write."

He says he would support two bills now in the legislature, AB 356 and 357, that would have school districts teach the basics first.

Harry Molz is one of five candidates vying for the two seats to be open on the Murray School District Board of Trustees.

A resident of Dublin since 1966, Molz and his wife, Paula, have seven children, all of whom have attended Murray district schools.

Harry Molz

Last year Molz was a member of the district's Citizens Advisory Committee that studied the question of converting an elementary school to a junior high school.

Molz sees the single biggest problem as NOT the conversion of Frederiksen, not declining enrollment, and not binding arbitration.

"Our biggest problem is our children's lack of a sound basic education in reading, writing and arithmetic," states Molz.

"This is the situation prevailing in most of the school systems in the U.S. today. While we talk endlessly about binding arbitration of teachers' grievances, salary increases, making school 'fun', we continue to graduate students who can barely read or write. The colleges complain about students coming to them from high schools who have difficulties reading and writing. The high schools complain about students coming to them from junior highs and the junior highs complain about the students coming to them from elementary schools," continues Molz.

"Where does it begin?"

Molz says we must eliminate some of the frills.

"What I would hope to see is a program of repeated ability testing. This would act as a check of classroom grades and report cards. Hopefully, this would prevent teachers from promoting students to the next grade who, in fact, would benefit by repeating a subject."

Molz says he disagrees with the school board choice of Frederiksen School for conversion. "I was on the CAC which recommended conversion of Dublin School. I disagree with their choice, but the choice has been made."

"Regarding a school closure," concludes Molz, "if enrollment is still declining a year down the road, and I believe it will, then I would favor active consideration of closing down a district school."

Donald Biddle cites his 10 years experience in cost engineering and planning with an engineering and construction firm. His experience includes making cost analyses and cost projections, as well as resources and personnel planning and scheduling.

He holds a civil engineering degree from Purdue University.

He and his wife have three children in the Murray School District.

Biddle feels choosing a new superintendent is the most immediate problem facing the district. "We must find a person who has the ability, experience and leadership to supervise our district's educational program."

He says he did not support the recommendation to convert Frederiksen to

Effort to save houses

PLEASANTON — The city council rezoned a few parcels on West Angela Street near the Peters Avenue extension from commercial to low density multiple last week in hopes that old houses in the block will be preserved.

The council said it has no quarrel with businesses that have been locating in the old houses, but it does not want them or future businesses to tear down the old structures and replace them with something new.

The planning staff thinks that the low density multiple zoning is so low key that property owners won't bother to change the land use, but will try to adapt the existing structures to the new use.

The owner of the parcel at 262 W. Angela St. said he preferred that his parcel be zoned for offices. David Rowe of 278 W. Angela St., owner of Diablo Termite Control, said he likes the way the area looks and wants businesses to move in so that the local payroll will be helped.

Rowe was told by the staff that no new businesses will be allowed in the multiple district, but some adjacent areas are zoned for offices.

Council Member William Herlihy commented that the council ought to look at long range planning for the neighborhood. The streets are substandard there and may not be able to accommodate future uses, he said. "I think it's half a job; we're not addressing the whole thing," said Herlihy.

Real estate list through chamber

PLEASANTON — The Chamber of Commerce has added a second coordinating activity to help the community — a real estate listing service for commercial and industrial properties.

The Chamber last month inaugurated a community calendar listing service where people phone in their events to try to assure they don't conflict with other happenings scheduled. That has worked very well, said Chamber of Commerce Executive Manager Chan Henderson.

Now the Chamber is offering a real estate listing service all written down in a book at the Chamber of Commerce, 10 W. Neal St. which can be viewed during business hours from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The book will list all commercial, industrial and office properties available in the city. It will include the property's address; whether it is for rent, lease or sale; the price; size of the facility and the lot; whether the property is improved and if so, how; when it will be available and whom to see about it; and the property's zoning. The listing will be a handy reference guide designed to encourage commercial, industrial and office development in the city, said Henderson.

SRV's Love Lane finds area protectors

DANVILLE — Love Lane will not be abandoned — it will be moved.

The lane now runs through the middle of San Ramon Valley High School. School officials say the lane creates dangerous traffic, and students have complained they have to dodge cars to get to class.

San Ramon Valley Unified School District board of education members voted 4 to 1 this week to relocate the lane near the San Ramon Valley Community Center and the lumber yard at a cost of $51,000.

A public hearing on the matter has been set March 8 by the Contra Costa County Planning Commission.

In other action at the school board's meeting, the California School Employees Association was recognized as the exclusive bargaining agent for clerical, technical and food service employees of the school.

Cable Connection

The 10th Cable Connection show will be cablecast in Pleasanton and Dublin at 8 p.m. today on cable TV Channel 10.

Produced by Darla Stevens of Pleasanton, the show will feature a talk on child abuse by Parental Stress members who will establish an office in Pleasanton next month.

Another segment of the program will discuss the local risks involved in earthquakes. Dr. John Tehwey of Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and geologist Stuart J. Inglis are featured.

Dolores Bengtson and Ron McNicoll will talk about the Cable Connection show to acquaint viewers with the openness of citizen access to cable TV production. McNicoll also will do a "Creative Minute" by reading an excerpt from Russell Baker's "all purpose newscast".

The show will be rebroadcast at 8:30 a.m. Monday and also next Friday in Livermore on cable TV Channel 12 by the Livermore School District Media Center, technical conditions permitting.

Anyone for ice hockey?

On Sports

They don't play much ice hockey in North Beach, so the mistake may be understandable.

But unless the San Francisco Giants' trade of malcontent right fielder Bobby Murcer for batting champ Bill Madlock pays off in a hurry, Mayor George Moscone's big error of 1976 will become all-the-more glaring.

Wanting to establish an image as a fighter for the common man, Moscone leaped into the arena for another grandstanding play to add to his televised ultimatums during the garbage strike.

Acting with thunderous zeal, he rummaged through the slaughterhouses of Arizona to find cattleman Bud Herseth and $4 million more to complement the figure San Francisco financier Bob Lurie was willing to spend in order to keep Murcer whining and vastly overtrumped John "the Count" Montesfusco fusing in Candlestick Park.

And a gushing sigh of collective relief spewed from the mouths of San Francisco's hypocritical baseball "fans."

When the Giants had "moved" to Toronto, the City's teary-eyed newspapers, thwarted in a campaign to oust the Oakland A's via thinly veiled "public opinion polls," eulogized the transplanted Harlemites' 18 years in town.

And, oh, how the populace did grieve. Persons who hadn't set foot in the Park before, or since, Bobby Richardson's World Series - saving catch of a 1962 Willie McCovey line drive wailed with sorry.

George Moscone

Entering the ring next, the Masked Mayor, to upset villainous Labatt's Brewery and send the beaten Canadians back across the border, and into the American League, where they belong.

Yippee! Everyone went wild. Bill Rigney was rushed in to manage about the fifth set of "Young Giants" in as many summers.

An esoteric San Francisco jock monthly sent one of its more jingoist scribes to the openers of both Bay Area nines and reported that Giant fans had some sort of mystical quality about them while Oakland fans resembled a collection of Winnebago owners.

That, in the fern and electric train cluttered night-teries like Perry's and Henry Africa's, is offered as an insult, ya see.

What was the mayor's next move to endear himself to the Northern California sporting public? He opposed Mel Swig's plan to construct — with private funds — an austere South of Market sports arena, ballyhooed for years as a way to lure both the struggling Seals and winning Warriors back to their "rightful" home.

Swig, defying all logic, took his Golden Turnips off to Cleveland, a two-time loser in major league hockey goes, and the Giants, well, the new found support tapered off and they weren't much better off than they'd been under Squire Horace Stoneham the season prior.

So, we've still got two mediocre baseball organizations telling fans the other franchise will just have to go.

And the California - Cleveland Seals - Barons? Barren.

Playing in the Richfield Township Coliseum, the Barons attendance fell from what was in Oakland by more than 10 per cent — a loss of almost 1000 customers per match from their dismal local gatherings.

Swig has been forced to scrimp through, unable to meet his payroll. A plan to sell fell through at the eleventh hour and, until yesterday, it appeared the team would become the first to fold in the last 36 years of NHL play.

Brooklyn, which left the league after the 1941 season, had to buck both the Rangers, a few miles to the west, and a depression.

The argument that Northern California is not a hockey area just doesn't hold melted ice. A metropolitan area of 4.5 million warm bodies should contain 13,000 aficionados of any given sport, even without a strong tradition in the game.

When the Seals skated in the Western Hockey League, they were highly successful, both on the ice and at the box office. Despite minor league status, Charlie Burns, Gerry Ostrowski, Orland Kurtenbach and Jack McCartan were as renowned as Wilt Chamberlain or Felipe Alou.

Poor management by a string of owners, ranging from the dilettante Barry Van Gerbig through the ubiquitous Charlie Finley to the National Hockey League itself, combined to drag the Seals down from a second-place finish in 1968 to oblivion this year.

Cleveland hasn't been the answer and with National or World teams already scraping the wilderness clear from Birmingham to Calgary, there isn't much virgin ground left to explore.

So, move 'em back here. Put them up in the Cow Palace till the city fathers come to these senses or jam them right back into the Coliseum.

With youth hockey teams playing in the lower mall of every new air-conditioned shopping center north of Visalia, the Golden Bare Seals could pack the place with reduced - price kids' tickets till they developed a corps of adult fans and season ticket holders.

Believe me, George, whatever baseball fans you allegedly have lurking through the Sunset can swallow their pride and cough up 50 cents for bridge toll. But ain't no hockey left now, your honor.

The Bay Area would appreciate a hockey team a whole lot more than it has two mediocre baseball clubs.

AV beats Pokes, wins title

Livermore High School's basketball team took some lessons on perfection from Amador Valley's Don Hall last night.

Hall shot flawlessly from the field in the early going to spur the Dons to a quick lead and carry them to a 62-50 victory over the Cowboys to take the East Bay Athletic League crown outright for a record fourth straight season.

In another EBAL game Granada crushed San Ramon 75-44 to gain the final playoff berth.

Playing in front of their own screaming fans, the Dons built up a first quarter lead of 20-6, maintaining that comfortable advantage for the remainder of the contest.

The Pokes, although climbing to within 12 points in the final margin, suffered horrendously from foul trouble throughout the game and never could quite make a run at the Dons double-digit advantage.

Amador Valley now enters the playoffs with the championship point, meaning they'll have to lose two games in the otherwise single-elimination tournament in order to have a return trip to the North Coast Section playoffs snuffed.

The Dons will host Granada tomorrow evening in the first round, while the Cowboys, who finished the season with a league slate of 10-4, will host Monte Vista in their opener tomorrow.

The Dons built up their familiar early lead by applying tough defense and shooting 85 percent from the field in the first quarter. After Tim Jenkins scored a bucket for Livermore with just a minute gone in the game to match a pair of Hall free throws, Amador Valley reeled off six straight points to set the tone for the first period putaway.

Hall began with a corner jumper and, after Mike Hansen popped in a long shot from the side, the Dons caught two more charity tosses from Hansen to take an 8-2 lead.

While Livermore's Mark McCreary banked home an inside lay-in to make it 10-6, AV ripped off a 10-0 burst to go into the quarter break with a 14-point advantage.

Hall hit three jumpers in the spree while Hansen drove for a pretty basket and Chris Kearns added a jumper seconds before the stanza's end.

Besides getting in foul trouble early, Livermore threw away countless passes against the tough Dons defense, whose arms seemed to grow a foot every time the Pokes released a pass.

Early in the second quarter Livermore guard John Farfan picked up his fourth personal foul to further thurt the Cowboy offense. Livermore coach John Jones, who normally likes to keep the same five players in the whole game, had to dig into his bench early last night.

AV took a 36-19 advantage into the halftime lockerroom and came out running in the second half to up their margin to 40-19, biggest lead of the night.

Jenkins picked up his fourth personal for Livermore just seconds into the half and eventually fouled out, finishing the contest with only four field goals.

With Hall and teammates Rick Howard and John Sevo picking up the tempo in the third quarter, the Dons took a 48-32 advantage into the final quarter standing up for the rest of the drawn-out contest.

Hall led all scorers with 18 points while Howard added 12 for the Dons. Dick Patterson and McCreary shared scoring honors for the Pokes with 12 points apiece.

The decisive win, a foregone conclusion as early as the first quarter, gave Granada the fourth playoff spot.

Granada, employing a tough man-to-man defense, held the Wolves to only four third-quarter points in racing to a 54-25 advantage.

The Mats improved it to as much as 33 with mainly reserves playing at this point.

Granada opened the scoring with the first six points of the game. The Mats held leads of 11 and 17 at the end of the first and second quarters.

Contributing to the winning cause was Joey Wujek with 20 markers, Jeff Evert with 19, Dan Lambert with 12 and Steve Robison with 11.

Wujek, meanwhile, was simply remarkable. The towering 6-6 center shut off the Wolves inside and hit for 12 points in the first half. San Ramon, on the other hand was led by Mike Campbell's 11 points while Phil Wiltz and Brad Hallock hit for eight and six points, respectively.

Amador girls seek revenge

The girls basketball season is looking like a xerox copy of the boys.

While the males met last night for the East Bay Athletic League Varsity championship, the girls teams from Livermore and Amador Valley High Schools tangle tonight at 7:30 p.m. to decide the EBAL title.

Coming into the contest, Amador Valley is 12-1, a game ahead of both the 'Pokes and Monte Vista at 11-2. However, the Dons lost their only game of the season to Livermore last time around, and the 'Pokes will be looking to pull the same trick this time in an attempt to pull even with the Dons.

A possibility of a three-way tie also exists if the Mustangs can get by Foothill in another game tonight.

The two other season-ending contests will pit California at Dublin and Granada at San Ramon.

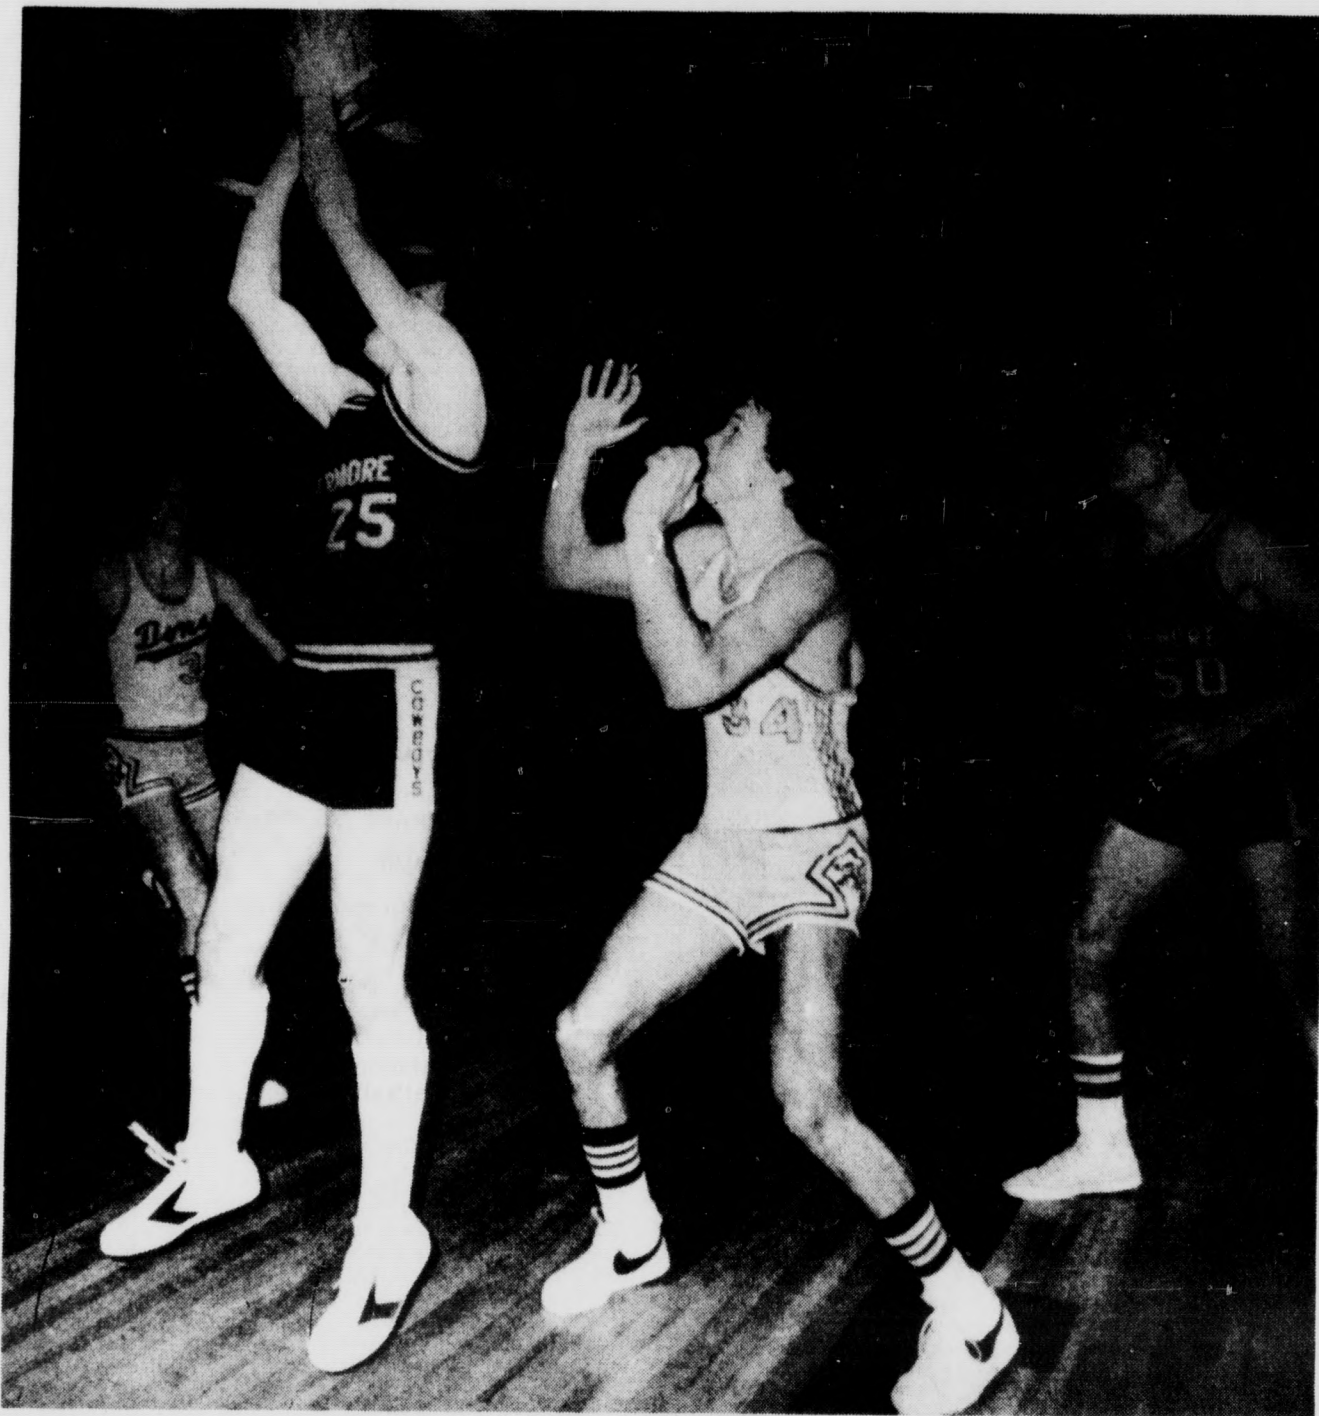

Livermore has been paced this season by the shooting of Lee Hardiman and Janice Paxiao, but have lost to Monte Vista twice in league play. The Mustangs, on the other hand, have one of the hottest shooters in the league in Carol Dolbsby.

But Livermore, unlike MV, controls its own fate. If it has hopes of knocking off the Dons. The only way MV can gain a title tie is a win against Foothill and a Livermore win over Amador.

The Dons, of course, can end the whole frenzy by simply beating the 'Pokes tonight and finishing the season in sole possession of first place.

In the event of a tie between the 'Pokes and Dons for first, the teams will playoff at Dublin High School Saturday at 8 p.m. to decide the North Coast Playoff Representative. If the Mustangs also pull up even, the Dons and 'Pokes will play at Monte Vista on Friday, the winner playing the Mustangs Saturday on the court of Friday's loser.

Amador boasts an excellent front-line, with Jayne Kuhns and Sheryl Withoft providing the inside punch and Jeannie McCullough and Jamie Watson leading the backcourt. Debbie Oxsen leads a torrid AV fast break that has time and again put the lid on their opponents.

Livermore's Mark McCreary (25) grabs a rebound as Amador's Rick Howard (34) and the Pokes' Brian Patterson watch.

Kuhn stalls Lindblad deal

NEW YORK — Oakland A's pitcher Paul Lindblad, who announced Tuesday that he had agreed to terms with the Texas Rangers, was ordered Wednesday to "remain on the Oakland roster" until the commissioner's office can further investigate the deal.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office sent a telegram Wednesday to Rangers owner Brad Corbett, A's owner Charlie Finley and Lindblad, who was sold to Texas by Finley for $400,000. Kuhn set a hearing in Dallas March 2 to consider the sale.

Kuhn's office said the hearing would consider two matters.

"One, whether the proposed assignment by the Oakland club of Lindblad's contract to Texas for cash is part of a plan or purpose of the Oakland club's management to liquidate the club's established major league talent in exchange for cash," the commissioner's office said.

"And two, whether the commissioner's approval of the transaction pursuant to major league rule 12(a) should not be withheld on the ground that it would not be in best interest of baseball."

Rule 12(a) was the authority Kuhn used last year to void Finley's sale of Vida Blue to the New York Yankees and Joe Rudi and Rolie Fingers to Boston.

Indiana's Benson out for season

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana center Kent Benson will be sidelined the rest of the season, his brilliant college career ended prematurely by a back injury, Coach Bobby Knight announced Wednesday.

Benson, a 6-foot-11 All-American, is under doctor's orders to remain at home in bed until his back heals.

Benson, who has had recurring back trouble for several years, re-injured it Sunday when he was knocked to the floor late in the game against Purdue. The injury was diagnosed as massive bruising and swelling.

Indiana, 12-11 over - all

Ralph Branca, famous for allowing the Bobby Thomson home run that beat the Brooklyn Dodgers out of the 1951 National League pennant, is in the insurance business in White Plains, N.Y.

Richie Hebner, a Boston grave digger in winter months, says he will have no trouble switching from third base to first base with the Phillies, his new team. Hebner played some first base for the 1969 Pirates.

and 7-7 in the Big Ten this year, has three games left.

Benson was a first-team All-American selection last year when the Hoosiers rolled to an undefeated season en route to the NCAA championship. He was voted the most valuable player in the national finals at Philadelphia.

He ends his college career as Indiana's second-leading all-time scorer and rebounder.

"Pending resolution of these two points," the commissioner's office said, "Lindblad will remain on the Oakland roster and should not workout or engage in any contract dealings with Texas."

Earlier, Finley had confirmed that Lindblad, a 12-year veteran relief pitcher, and the Rangers had come to terms and that Corbett had refused to discuss the deal with Kuhn.

Finley also indicated he would sue Kuhn if he tried to block the deal. Finley already has a $3.5-million suit pending against Kuhn that resulted from the commissioner's blocking the Blue-Rudi-Fingers sales.

Bob Newendyke

Golf pro needs a home

Bob Newendyke

His golf game is sound, job secure and personality congenial, yet behind a bushy mustache and under a mop of blond wavy hair stands a man in sudden fear.

Bob Newendyke has a big problem. Mammoth in fact and he's finding it tough to tackle.

"I can't find one," says San Ramon Nationals newest teaching pro. "I'm starting to panic."

Who wouldn't? Newendyke, driving over 100 miles to and from his new job almost daily, must be out of his Los Gatos home by Saturday. Although he says the trip is well worth it; it's also apparent that he may be sleeping in cramped quarters soon.

"Yeah," he joked, "I may be staying in my Volkswagen."

The new pro hasn't had much time to go apartment shopping since he started putting his wisdom to work at the tidy San Ramon course some two weeks ago.

He's just beginning to put all his energies to work, holding one hour teaching sessions, providing free clinics while at the same time building a positive image at the 17-year-old course.

"I really don't think that anyone has promoted lessons and the game like I'm trying to do," explained the nine year PGA member and former pro. "I enjoy watching people play golf, not only well, but in a fundamentally sound way. Helping a person's swing is really important to me."

"I'm basically a teacher," he added. "I love competitive golf. That's one reason why I chose this position. From what I've gained and the things I know, I'm sure that I can benefit a lot of people here."

His background is rich. Newendyke held teaching spots at Stanford University Golf Club, Castlewood, Peninsula Golf and Country Club in San Mateo; performed on the PGA tour in '73 and has played in small tournaments on the Bay Area Scene in recent years.

Newendyke has also coached several college golf teams, has worked with lots of junior players, handicapped children and comes over from Willow Park Golf Course where he was employed for just under a year.

Now he feels well qualified to push all the right buttons and give area golfers the needed confidence to belt lengthy drives and to sink 40-foot putts.

Players can be assured of the up close and personal touch, he said.

"I try to keep a maximum of 10 plays in a class so that I can give more attention to each person," he said. "Some pros (at other courses) take 25 to 30 but I don't think much gets accomplished when you have that large of a class."

He has big plans for promotion. Last Thursday Newendyke offered a free clinic to ladies on chipping and putting. "It was started with the idea of setting up some ladies group lessons," he said.

After the clinic, the new pro held sign-ups for lessons and the list for his first class on Thursday mornings was filled in an instant. Another session, on Saturday at 9 a.m., is half full.

"And it's a pretty good bargain, too," explained Newendyke of the six one hour lessons for just $20. He plans to start an identical program for juniors beginning on March 5.

"I think that people will find that I'm pretty flexible with my time," noted Bob, who has given up to 13 lessons a day. "I like to go on the idea of quality over quantity."

Newendyke won't deny he's enjoying his new job. But there's one catch.

"It would be a lot better if I could find a place to live," he cracked.

Barons' franchise saved

NEW YORK — The Cleveland Barons were saved from financial extinction Wednesday by a $13-million refinancing program which included a loan of $600,000 to the team by the National Hockey League's Players Association.

The Cleveland franchise was formally located in Oakland where it was named the California Golden Seals.

The loan was the key factor in enabling the crisis-riddled club to stay alive for the remainder of the season, according to a member of the NHL's Board of Governors.

William Jennings, president of the New York Rangers, told The Associated Press the salvation of the Barons "would have been impossible" without the players' agreement to help keep the team operational for the rest of the current NHL season.

The agreement, reached jointly by the Board, NHL Players Association director Alan Eagleson, and Barons owner Mel Swig, was produced with lightning speed — turning around a financial crisis which appeared insoluble as late as 3 a.m. Wednesday.

"Last night, I'd have bet we wouldn't be here announcing anything like what just has taken place," said NHL board chairman John Ziegler in revealing the last-moment money raised to keep the club in operation.

Under terms of the agreement, Ziegler said the Swig would provide $350,000 and that the league had voted unanimously to infuse $350,000 of its own for the program.

Eagleson said his group's portion of the funds would be provided through a loan obtained at a Toronto bank.

That loan, Eagleson said, would be paid off through extra exhibition games to be played in the preseason. Each team will play at least one extra game, with proceeds from the contest being used to pay off the loan.

NHL President Clarence Campbell said that other items guaranteed by the agreement were "the player contracts, insurance, and the total cost of operation of the team."

The agreement reached, the players learned they were going to play Wednesday night's scheduled home game against the Buffalo Sabres. Troubled by the fact that not all of them had been paid and confused by conflicting reports on efforts to refinance the franchise, the players had voted Tuesday not to play in Wednesday night's game.

The agreement reversed a number of public stands the governors had taken against providing more money to the team which entered the NHL as the California Seals as an expansion team in 1967-68 and was moved to Cleveland before the current season began.

Aquacowboy stars qualify for nationals

Steve Ruffner and Kirsten Franklin of the Livermore Aquacowboys each qualified in two events for the Short Course Junior Olympics Nationals swimming event this spring in Dallas last week in Salinas.

Ruffner, swimming in the 15-year old 100-yard breaststroke, won the event with a lifetime best of 1:02.2. He also qualified in the 200-breast where he was fourth with a personal best of 2:16.6.

Steve also swam a non-qualifying 2:05.6 in the 200-yard individual medley.

Franklin qualified in the 500 and 1650 freestyle events. She clocked personal bests in both events. She was fourth in the 1650 at 17:25.3 and failed to place with a 5:05.5 in the shorter event.

The Aquacowboys were also represented by the Lohmann brothers, Paul and Karl. Paul, 17, finished sixth in the 200-yard backstroke with a 2:05.5 and clocked a 57.8 in the 100-yard back. Karl, 15 swam a 1:04.9 in the 100-yard breast and 2:24.6 in the 200-yard breast.

The Aquacowboys sent a much larger contingent to last year's JO Nationals in Tennessee, but didn't take as many swimmers to this year's qualifying meet.

Pokes, Gaels win cage tilts

Livermore and Dublin each won hard-fought contests in East Bay Athletic League girls' basketball action Tuesday night.

The Cowgirls built up a 26-16 halftime lead then hung on to topple California 45-38. Dublin defeated Granada 35-28.

The Gaels took advantage of six Granada turnoovers in the third quarter and scored eight straight points.

Dublin center Joanne Callender dominated action at both ends of the court as she canned seven field goals for 14 points. Dawn Schummer added seven points for the Gaels, mostly on outside shooting.

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB — My daughter is 24 and has had bad breath for several years. None of the products on the market seem to help for very long.

When she had a check-up with her doctor she asked him about this but he couldn't seem to find out what is causing this.

She has a bit of a weight problem so she watches her diet but she says she has no problem with her bowels, which sometimes happens when people don't eat the right food. I am wondering if you have any solution to this problem?

DEAR READER — Bad breath is a symptom, not a diagnosis. It is also very common. Unfortunately some people have it and are unaware they are offensive to others.

Your daughter was correct in asking her doctor about it and I am sorry she didn't get more help. It is also true that the available mouthwashes and breath sweeteners are of limited help. They just mask the odor temporarily and do not do anything to correct the cause.

The cause can be from the teeth. This may be from infected pockets around the roots that a person cannot clean out himself. A low grade infection is present along with decaying material. This is pyorrhea and it needs to be treated by a dentist. So, one thing a person with bad breath should do is see the dentist to correct any existing dental problems.

Beyond that the problem may be a low grade infection in the sinuses. As the air flows through the nose or back of the throat it may pick up unpleasant odors from such infections.

Mouth breathing may cause bad breath. The normal secretions in the back of the throat may dry up and this may allow bacteria to grow there that create an odor.

Chronically infected tonsils may be a source of bad breath. Any significant infection can release unpleasant odors. However, if the tonsils are not infected, taking them out will not help a bad breath problem.

Beyond the teeth, throat, nose and sinuses there are possible problems with the lungs. Any infection of the lungs, such as chronic lung disease, can cause bad odors that pass out of the lung with each breath.

The lungs are a major source of odors. Remember that the odor of alcohol on a person's breath comes from the alcohol vapors being released from the blood going into the lungs and into the air that the person exhales. This is the basis for the breath test for alcohol consumption. You can breathe out the odor of any chemical from the body. A person with diabetic acidosis will have an odor to the breath similar to alcohol because chemicals of incomplete metabolism (ketones) are released from the blood into the air. Similarly chemicals from liver disease may cause the breath to have a particular "fruity" odor.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis, to give you more complete information. Others who want this information or want it sent to someone who needs it can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, addressed envelope for mailing to whoever you want to have it. Just send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, TX 78292.

My advice to everyone who has a breath problem is to have a medical and dental evaluation. The causes of this social problem are many and some are more important than just having a socially embarrassing problem.

Johnny Wonder's QUESTION CORNER

Q. "WHAT IS A PTARMIGAN?"

A. PTARMIGANS ARE HARDY BIRDS THAT LIVE IN SNOWY REGIONS. THE FEATHERS OF THIS BIRD ARE WHITE IN WINTER AND BECOME BROWNISH IN SUMMER.

ELAINE JACKSON TUCSON, AZ

A ptarmigan (pronounced TAR muh gan) is an unusual bird closely related to the grouse.

You probably thought it a resident of the barren tundra of the far North. But one of the three North American kinds, the white-tailed ptarmigan, is often found in the high mountain ranges of our western states.

In the winter the feathers of this hardy, 10-inch-long bird are white like the snow. Feathered even to its toes, the ptarmigan is protected from the freezing temperatures of its mountain home.

The stiff feathers on its toes act like snowshoes, allowing the ptarmigan to walk on top of the soft snow in search of leaves and buds to eat. Its winter coat blends with the snowy background and protects the ptarmigan from such keen-eyed enemies as the fox and hawk.

In spring, the ptarmigan loses white feathers and grows new brown ones, providing it with a year-round camouflage.

South should have raised two notrump to three instead of bidding three diamonds. He had honors in all suits and no singleton. His three-diamond bid got him to four spades and gave Alan Sontag and Peter Weichsel a chance for some successful razzle-dazzle defense.

It started with trick one. Peter opened the deuce of hearts. The five was played from dummy and Alan falsecarded with the queen. The play couldn't fool his partner and did fool declarer who took the trick with the ace and led the five of clubs. Peter hopped right up with the ace and led the deuce of diamonds.

Peter knew South would go right up with dummy's ace. South did just that and proceeded to cash dummy's top clubs in order to discard that same queen of diamonds. Then South led a trump from dummy.

Alan ducked and South was in with the king. He led a heart with every intention of finessing dummy's 10. After all he was sure that Peter's original heart lead had been from the jack.

At this point the hand collapsed. Peter ruffed with the ace of trumps while poor South discarded a heart. Not that it did him any good. Alan led back a heart and Peter was sure to score the setting trick with his jack.

A New Jersey reader wants to know why a bid of three notrump that counts 100 doesn't outrank a bid of four clubs that counts 80. The answer is that since the invention of contract in 1925 the bid for the greater number of tricks has always been the winning bid. Between bids for the same number the rank is notrump, spades, hearts, diamonds and clubs.

Call for community aid to wives

is set for 7:30 p.m. and Cathie may be contacted at 447-7621 for details.

Using other crisis centers as a model, Cathie would like to see a refuge in a large home in the Valley, its address not publicized but its phone number readily available.

Ideally, it would be staffed with "supportive" volunteers, preferably women who had been through the same traumas themselves. "What we don't need," she points out, "is anybody saying, She probably asked for it!"

There would be simply furnished bedrooms where mothers and their children could sleep — San Francisco statistics show most women have one child at most. There would be a budget for food, which the women would prepare cooperatively. There would be a playroom for the kids.

Counselors, doctors, lawyers and welfare workers would be available to give the women information.

Vocational counseling would be a big part of the program, since many women, whether well-off or poor, don't want to leave their husbands because they can't support a family.

As a former Santa Clara County probation officer, Cathie has experience in setting up group homes for juveniles and feels she can organize a women's home — with a lot of help from interested local residents.

"In this valley," she says, "women's groups accomplish so much, raise so much money, have so many projects.

Toll hike reaction mixed at MTC meet

Reaction to a plan to raise Bay Bridge tolls to $1 was mixed at a Metropolitan Transportation Commission first hearing on the subject.

Of the 10 people testifying at the Wednesday hearing in Oakland, about half approved of doubling the tolls, which are now 50 cents.

The MTC has proposed the toll increase as part of a plan to provide more money for mass transit in the Bay Area. Another hearing is set March 10 in Concord.

A Sierra Club representative said the tolls should be raised because transit agencies can use the money.

Further, he suggested that the regional transportation planning agency should do what it can to increase the productivity of bus drivers.

That could be done by using buses which can carry more people.

Wilfred Russell of the Contra Costa-based Institute for Public Transportation warned that the toll hike shouldn't be implemented because it might lead to a confrontation with the state Department of Transportation.

But MTC staff members said there is little likelihood of such a confrontation because the tolls must only provide enough money for maintenance of the bridge and repayment of bridge construction bonds. The $1 toll would amply cover those costs with money left over.

Greg Moore of the Bay Area Council supported the MTC's efforts to find new money for transit financing, but warned that there should be close monitoring of how local transit agencies spend the money.

Hale Zuchas of the Center for Independent Living asked that disabled people be exempted from tolls.

Women's group backs boycott of record firms

A boycott against Elektra, Warners, Atlantic and any other record companies or other products which use advertising depicting violence against women has been endorsed by the South County Battered Women's Committee.

The group, which is trying to build a shelter for battered women in southern Alameda County, meets on the second Wednesday of the month at the South County Women's Center, 25036 Carlos Bee Boulevard, Hayward. Phone is 537-2112.

The group also announces sensitivity sessions for anyone who comes in contact with battered women. They will be held at the South County Women's Center Feb. 24 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., March 3 from 6:30 p.m. to 10:30 p.m., and March 12 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. For more information, call the women's center.

Wives' haven welcomed

If Cathie Brown of Livermore can get a refuge for battered women established in the Valley, it will be a welcome addition to the only existing one in south county.

That's the opinion of Mary Anchondo of the staff of the Women's Refuge, 885 Kellogg St., Hayward.

The center, established in 1973, had been a haven for transient men, but the community realized there was a bigger problem providing emergency shelter for women and children. Most, but not all, of the center's 366 clients a month, are women and children who have been beaten by a spouse or boy friend or who live in the threat of such a beating.

The center takes many women and children from the Valley as well as from Hayward, Fremont, the rest of south county and as far away as San Francisco. The nearest refuges providing similar service are the Salvation Army in Oakland and the Berkeley Women's Refuge.

The Hayward center has a counselor on duty 24 hours a day and people should call first to see if there is room for them. Demand sometimes is heavy and the center can accommodate only 16 guests in the house.

Guests may stay as long as seven days, though typically most stay for two or three days before finding other shelter. Often the people qualify for Section 8 public housing rent subsidies and the center works closely with the county housing authority to find shelter as quickly as possible.

The problem of battered wives has been publicized greatly in the past six months with books and women's movement speakers discussing it, said Anchondo. The publicity has resulted in more women telling their friends about their problems and getting help, she said, so there appears to be a greater need for more women's refuges.

"It's a very interesting thing that the victims are from all levels of income, not just low income people," said Anchondo.

The Hayward shelter is supported with funds from Hayward and Alameda County revenue sharing. The shelter serves as a halfway house, taking a limited number of women from time to time who are leaving the state prison system.

Merit 100's Here!

MERIT taste science applied to new low tar 100mm cigarette with impressive results.

The MERIT breakthrough technology that produced a whole new taste standard in low tar smoking has now been applied to a 100mm cigarette.

New MERIT 100's. Only 12 mg. tar. Yet packed with 'Enriched Flavor' tobacco. Tobacco fortified with certain key flavor-rich ingredients isolated in cigarette smoke and proven to deliver taste way out of proportion to tar.

If you smoke but haven't chosen to take advantage of the MERIT breakthrough because you prefer a longer length cigarette, you'll be interested.

Kings: 9 mg. "tar," 0.7 mg. nicotine—
100's: 12 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine av. per cigarette by FTC Method.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

MERIT & MERIT MENTHOL. KINGS & 100's.

Because now you have your MERIT, too. Read the test results for yourself.

Test Data Conclusive

New 12 mg. tar MERIT 100's were taste-tested against a number of major 100mm brands ranging from 17 mg. to 19 mg. tar.

Thousands of smokers were tested. The results: overall, they liked the taste of MERIT 100's as much as the higher tar 100mm brands tested.

MERIT and MERIT MENTHOL. King Size and new 100's.

The taste barrier for low tar smoking has been broken again.
